Welcome to Newport

Thank you for choosing to make Newport your home too! We are pleased to have you as a new resident or business owner.

Newport provides an excellent mix of historic amenities and contemporary development. The City occupies a land area of 3.5 square miles and serves a population of approximately 17,000. The community's riverfront area provides a striking view of the Cincinnati skyline and is host to premier attractions including the Newport Aquarium, Newport on the Levee, BB Riverboats, Hofbrauhaus, and the World Peace Bell, the world's largest swinging bell. The riverfront area serves host to numerous warm weather festivals and events. Newport is also home to an historic downtown filled with eclectic businesses and the East Row neighborhood, one of Kentucky's largest and finest historic districts.

There are six National Register historic districts in Newport, as well as one local historic district and numerous individually listed landmarks.

National Historic Register Districts:

Cote Brillante	290 acres, 125 buildings
East Newport	1150 acres, 984 buildings
Mansion Hill	500 acres, 384 buildings
Monmouth Street	80 acres, 94 buildings
York Street	70 acres, 56 buildings
Newport Courthouse Square	110 acres, 17 buildings

The East Row Local Historic District is comprised of portions of the Mansion Hill and East Newport National Register historic districts. It has roughly 1,000 properties within its borders. Most of these are residential, with some commercial properties and several churches.

The City has operated under the City Manager form of government since 1932. Legislative authority is vested in the Mayor and Board of Commissioners, while the City Manager is responsible for the day-to-day administration of the community. Newport provides a full range of services including a nationally accredited full-time professional police force; fire protection with advanced life support medic services; street maintenance and improvement; solid waste collection; twelve parks and recreational facilities; cultural events; planning and zoning; code enforcement; and business development. All of these services lead to a safe, clean, and welcoming community.

Location

Newport, by its location, has the advantage of being easily accessible from every direction. Three bridges, two vehicular and one pedestrian, connect Newport to downtown Cincinnati. The City also has two bridges connecting to Covington on its western boundary.

The City has excellent access to I-471 with three exits within its jurisdiction. I-471 provides connectivity to I-275, which facilitates easy transportation to all of Northern Kentucky. Newport is bound on the north by the Ohio River, to the west by the Licking River, to the east roughly by I-471, and to the south by the cities of Wilder, Southgate, and Ft. Thomas.

Newport Neighborhood Map

History – (Section text excerpted from www.northern-kentucky.com/city-of-newport.htm with minor modifications.)

Established in 1795 by James Taylor, Newport is named in honor of Admiral Christopher Newport. Admiral Newport had led the first English settlement at Jamestown, which is in Taylor's native state of Virginia. The land had actually been platted twenty years prior by his brother Hubbard Taylor, who at the time was surveying it for his father.

In 1793 it is said that James Taylor laid out the workings for a road to Lexington (U.S. 27) and in 1795 he subdivided 150 acres of land into lots. Newport's development received a major boost in 1803, when the army agreed to build a military post there. The army purchased five acres of land for $1 from James Taylor. The land was located at the mouth of the Licking River. The army post was later to be named the Newport Barracks.

By 1848, the year of James Taylor's death, Newport's population had grown to around 1,000 people. The residents had a couple of churches and several factories that manufactured rope and woolen products.

Newport's military post was the center of activity during the Civil War and recruiters from both the Union and the Confederate Armies recruited there. It is also said that Jefferson Davis, General Robert E. Lee and Union General Ulysses S. Grant served tours of duty at the Newport Barracks.

The 1860's brought Newport mass transit in the form of mule driven streetcars. The Newport Street Railway, which operated routes on York Street and Washington Street later merged into what became the Green Line bus system and into present day Transit Authority of Northern Kentucky.

The turn of the century brought electricity to Newport and a numbering system that caused the renaming of many Newport streets. It was also in that time that Newport native John Thompson invented the Thompson Machine Gun ("Tommy Gun") that became known nationwide for its use by gangsters. The gangsters themselves would become a part of Newport's history during the 1920's.

A flood in 1937 left much of Newport under water, and would go down in history as Newport's worst natural disaster to date. The floodwall that is part of today's landscape was completed in 1948, as a result of the flood of 1937.

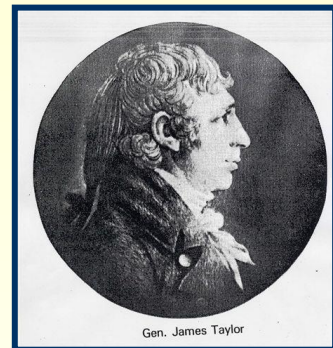

The 1940's through 1980's brought turbulent times for Newport as gambling halls and Vegas style nightclubs operated in the city. Efforts to clean up the city in response to public outcry led to vast political and social change. Those reform efforts have rewarded Newport with its current stature of today.

Today's Newport is a hot bed of development and redevelopment. The eastside has been transformed into the East Row Historic District, a place where homes have been returned to their original historic state. Property values are dramatically on the rise and pride in the community can be seen on every corner. The riverfront area is also being developed and tourist attractions such as the Newport Aquarium, World Peace Bell and Newport on the Levee have been erected. Newport is also becoming a home for unique shops, cafes and bed and breakfast inns. The riverfront community is now brimming with dining options and festivities. For all that it has become, the best is yet to come for Newport.

Founder – (Section text excerpted from www.wikipedia.com with minor modifications.)

James Taylor Jr. (1769-1848) was an American banker, Quartermaster General, and one of the wealthiest early settlers of Kentucky. He was a founder of the City of Newport, Kentucky.

He was the fifth child born to James Taylor Sr. and his wife, Anne Hubbard Taylor in Midway, Virginia. His father, James Taylor Sr., bought 2,700 acres of land in Northern Kentucky from his friend George Muse, which was part of the land Muse had been awarded for his military service in the French and Indian War.

The Taylor family had two cousins, James Madison and Zachary Taylor, who later become presidents of the United States.

On April 1, 1792, just short of his 23rd birthday, James Taylor Jr. left his father's plantation for Kentucky. Accompanied by him were three slaves, Moses, Humphrey and Adam, along with an English Army deserter, Robert Christy, and Christy's wife and their three children. They reached Newport June 20 but couldn't find lodging so he stayed at Ft. Washington in Cincinnati. His enslaved men worked through the summer to clear 16 acres in fields along the Licking, plant two corn crops and build a small cabin on lot no. 6 at the southwest corner of Second Street and Central Avenue. He became the driving force behind the settlement's development. He laid out the first road to Lexington in August with Jacob and Edward Fowler.

In 1794 James Taylor tapped his connections with Kentucky's leaders to lobby at Frankfort for acts incorporating Newport and creating Campbell County, Kentucky. The legislature established the county on December 17, 1794 from parts of Mason, Scott and Harrison Counties. On December 14, 1795 it approved Newport's charter.

James Taylor Jr. and Keturah Moss Leitch were married on Nov. 15, 1795. James and Keturah Taylor had 11 children, but only four survived to maturity.

In 1803, James Taylor Jr. solicited the help of his cousin, James Madison, who was then U.S. Secretary of State, to persuade the federal government to move the Ft. Washington military post from Cincinnati to Newport. The Newport Barracks replaced Fort Washington across the river in Cincinnati, Ohio. There were but four acres in the original tract, which was bought from the old Colonel Taylor estate for the minimal price of $1. In 1806, two additional acres were bought for $47. Taylor was hired as the superintendent of the construction of the barracks. He was to erect three buildings.

Gen. James Taylor Jr. was Quartermaster General and paymaster of the Northwestern Army during the War of 1812, thus Newport became a vital center for war supplies.

During a storied lifetime, James Taylor Jr. operated ferries across both the Ohio and Licking rivers, helped to found banks, invested in the mammoth Newport Manufacturing Co., operated saw and grist mills along the Licking River, was part owner of a salt-works at Grants Lick, Ky., ran a tanning business and in his spare time was known to collect fossils and hunt buffalo at Big Bone Lick in Boone County.

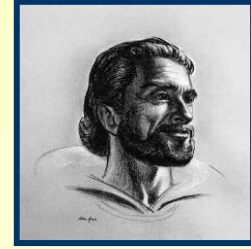

James Taylor Jr. and his wife were members of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newport, on the Courthouse Square. He and his wife Keturah were laid to rest at the Taylor Family Plot Evergreen Cemetery, Southgate, Ky. At his death, James Taylor Jr. was said to be one of the wealthiest men in the state of Kentucky, with an estate valued at more than $4 million.

In the mid 1800s, Newport became a hub for trade, industry and culture. Just a few years later, Gen. Taylor's grandson established the wealthy area of East Row, a collection of elegant homes. Today, the East Row local Historic District is the second largest local district in Kentucky and the Taylor Mansion is the district's oldest house.

Namesake – (Section text excerpted from www.wikipedia.com with minor modifications.)

Christopher Newport (c. 1561–1617) was an English sailor. He is best known as the captain of the Susan Constant, the largest of three ships which carried settlers for the Virginia Company in 1607 on the way to found the settlement at Jamestown in the Virginia Colony, which became the first permanent English settlement in North America.

He made several voyages of supply between England and Jamestown. In 1609, he became Captain of the new supply ship Sea Venture, which met a hurricane and was shipwrecked on Bermuda. That event began Bermuda's permanent settlement by England. That archipelago (also known officially as the Somers Isles after Sir George Somers, Admiral of the Virginia Company, who also survived the Sea Venture wreck) is still a territory (formerly a possession, dependency, or colony) of the United Kingdom almost 400 years later.

Newport Business Association

This local non-profit organization was established to serve the local businesses through its problem-solving forum, unified voice to policy makers, and through its member support. The NBA holds monthly meetings with timely business oriented presentations the last Wednesday of the month at 8:00 AM.

Trade

Newport is home to approximately 600 businesses employing 6,500 people. The leading sectors are: service; retail; government; manufacturing; insurance, and real estate; and construction.

Examples of large, private employers include Comfort Suites, EGC, Executive Transportation, Gerner Law, Intrinzie Marketing, Kroger, Multi-Craft Litho, National Band and Tag, Newport Aquarium, Remke's, Target, Wendling Printing, and Xanodyne.

Additionally, Newport on the Levee, the Cincinnati area's largest tourist attraction, brings approximately four million visitors to the community every year.

Purple = Tuesday and Friday

Green = Wednesday and Saturday

1. Please call Rumpke at (877) 786-7537 if you have any questions.
2. Please inform the City if you have a missed pickup so that we can monitor service levels (859) 292-3686.
3. Please place your garbage out the night before and retrieve bins as soon as possible after the collection is completed.

Friendly reminder...

City Street Sweeping operations begin March 1st and continues through November. Be sure to check the posted signs for your street's scheduled day so we can keep our community as clean as possible.

Annually, the City celebrates Litterfest. During this event, residents of Newport will be permitted to dispose of debris at the City's garage at no cost. Please call Newport Public Works with any questions.

Warmer weather triggers the City to increase its attention to community property and should also motivate our residents and business owners to increase their yard maintenance and care. Please keep your yard and surrounding areas free from tall grass, weeds, and trash.

Please also remember to properly care for and monitor any pets you are responsible for.
